Palestinian stone is often preferred by architects round the world. This is because it has several advantages. First, the quality is excellent. Second, Palestinian marble production is very efficient, and it's produced in large quantities. That means it's less expensive than marble from other countries like Italy. Also, it has natural colours that are special to Palestine. Finally, it comes from the Holy Land itself, Palestine. Stone industry in Palestine produces 4.5% of the world's building stone. It also makes 450 million dollars a year for Palestine, and it provides over 22,000 jobs.
