Question number one:

(20 points)

Read the text and do the tasks below:

Are today's young sports stars overpaid? It's an opinion you'll often hear repeated, especially in the world of football. The figures are astonishing. When the Welsh player Gareth Bale joined Real Madrid s in 2013, his reported salary was around £250,000 a week or, if you prefer, £13 million a year. So every week he earns as much as the average Real supporter makes in ten years. This may be an extreme example, but there are a lot more footballers around the world earning almost as much.

It's a situation that makes some people very angry, but those who are infuriated by it often forget what players have to do to get to the top, and the risks involved. A new book by Wayne Barton tells the story of some of those who fell on the way up. These are young men who achieved the dream of playing for the famous club Manchester United, but only had short careers, often because of injuries. Take young Tony Gill, for example, who was on his way to becoming a regular first team player when he hurt his leg and was never able to recover, or the young forward Deiniol Graham, who broke his arm and never played professionally again.

The list of these tragedies goes on, but the story that stands out is that of Giuliano Majorana. At the age of 19, he was playing for an amateur team in Cambridge shire, England when he was noticed by one of Manchester United's many scouts, who was searching the lower levels of football for promising young players. At first Giuliano thought the offer of a trial for the world-famous Manchester club was a joke, wasn't-only months later, he played his first match at United's home ground, Old Trafford. He still remembers the mixture of excitement and terror he felt.

Unfortunately, he didn't get on well with the manager, and was soon playing in the reserve team. It was in a reserve match two years later that his knee was badly damaged. Soon, at the age of 24, his career was finished. For seven years after that, he couldn't even watch football. He now works for his family's business back in Cambridge, moving furniture, and says that he now wishes he hadn't been so good at 1 football when he was young.

A -Answer the following questions:

Question Number Two:

(20 points)

Read the text and find answers to the questions below:

According to a survey in 2017 by the Royal Society for Public Health, Britons aged 14-24 believe that Facebook, Instagram, Snapchat and Twitter have detrimental effects on their wellbeing. On average, they reported that these social networks gave them extra scope for self-expression and community-building. But they also said that the platforms exacerbated anxiety and depression, deprived them of sleep, exposed them to bullying and created worries about their body image and “FOMO” (“fear of missing out”). Academic studies have found that these tend to be particularly severe among frequent users. Sean Parker, Facebook’s founding president, has admitted that the product works by “exploiting a vulnerability in human psychology”. Indeed, an experiment by five neuroscientists in 2014 concluded that Facebook triggers the same impulsive part of the brain as gambling and drugs. Yet it is difficult to prove that obsessing over likes and comments causes mental illness, rather than the other way around. The most convincing effort was a survey that tracked a group of 5,208 Americans between 2013 and 2015. It found that an increase in Facebook activity was associated with a future decrease in reported mental health .

Nearly 63% of Instagram users report being miserable, a higher share than for any other social network. They spend an average of nearly an hour per day on the app. The 37% who are happy spend on average just over half as long. An obvious solution to the problem is to cut down on screen time. Even the most obsessive users should be able to do so.

Question Number One: (20 points)

Read the text and do the tasks below:

----- There are limits to how many sports can be included in the Olympic Games. In the 2012 Summer Games, there were 26, and the International Olympic Committee (IOC) have added two more for 2016 (golf and rugby sevens). There are various criteria that the IOC bases its decisions on, but the most important is probably international popularity. Sports tend to get included if they have a tradition and are played and watched by enough people in enough countries.

----- This leads to some interesting questions. Why, for example, was baseball included from 1984, but then dropped for 2012? Although some think it is only popular in the USA, it actually has a large following in South America and Asia too. The main reason for leaving it out, according to some, is a combination of geography and politics: There is little interest in the sport in Europe, and European members are in a majority on the IOC.

----- Of the other sports not (yet) included, one that stands out is squash. It has a long tradition and is played all over the world. It's also more obviously a real sport than some other Olympic sports. In fact, it is more mysterious why certain sports are included. Take speed walking, for example the rules say the athletes have to have both feet in contact with the ground at all times, and must keep their legs straight. The result, to me at least, looks very silly.

----- More importantly, it breaks one of my two personal rules for judging serious sports because it puts artificial limits on what can be done. My other rule is that the scoring has to be objective and measurable, not a matter of opinion.

A. Match the headings with the suitable paragraphs above: (4 points)

- a. Two examples of strange decisions b. What makes an Olympic sport
c. My own criteria d. A change of mind

B. Decide whether each of the following is True or False: (3 points)

1. There were 26 sports in the 2016 Summer Games. ()
2. Baseball is well-known in most European countries. ()
3. The writer suggests that speed walking should not be included in the Olympics. ()

C. Complete the following: (5 points)

1. The IOC included _____ and _____ for the 2016 summer games.
2. For the IOC, the most important reason for including sports is _____
3. According to some, baseball was left out from the 2012 games for _____ and _____ reasons.

D. Answer the questions: (5 points)

1. According to the writer, why should squash be considered as a game in the Olympics?
a. _____ b. _____
c. _____
2. What are the writer's criteria for scoring in sports?
_____ .

E. Write what the following words and pronouns might refer to: (3 points)

1. they (line 4) _____ 2. the sport (line 9) _____
3. their (line 14) _____

Question Number Two: (20 Marks)

Read the text about time management then answer the questions below:

Your success in high school can greatly be improved by being organized and using your time wisely. Staying organized can help ease the burden of a busy schedule. Here are some important tips to remember:

Tip1-----: Managing your time effectively requires differentiating between what is important and what is urgent. Fill in things you must do (classes, work, practice, etc. that you can't change).

Write down appointments and class assignments. Make a daily checklist and rank it according to your priorities.

Tip 2-----: Organizing the place where you study, or your bedroom. Throw all the unnecessary files and papers away and leave the others in files so it will be easy for you to reach.

Tip3-----: Use daylight hours to study whenever possible. For most students for every hour of study done in daylight hours, it will take them one and a half hours to do the same task at night.

Tip 4-----: The care and attention you give yourself is very important. Scheduling time to relax, study breaks, eat regularly can help you both physically and mentally, enabling you to accomplish tasks more quickly and easily.

A. A: Read the text then choose the best title (a - d) for each tip:

Question Number One : (20 points)

Read the following text then answer the questions below:

Information and Communications Technology businesses could be the best hope for the economic future of Palestine, according to experts inside and outside the country. A recent report said that the ICT sector makes up over 5% of the Palestinian economy.

Why ICT? For Mustafa Jawad, the head of an online graphic design company, the answer is simple: "For an ICT start-up, all you need is a computer and a connection. You can distribute your final product by exporting it to the internet cloud." There are still problems, though. The main one is the lack of networks in Palestine because access to the necessary wavebands is not available yet. Mustafa was always good at art and languages, and when he finished school, everyone advised him to study English at university. Instead, he taught himself how to programme and started making his own software programmes. His first attempt was a game, which was so popular with his fellow students that he decided starting his own company might be a real possibility.

His big breakthrough came when he attended a 'start-up weekend' in Ramallah. He managed to get a small amount of financial support which gave him the time to develop more ideas. Perhaps more importantly, he met other business people, both Palestinians and from other countries and learnt a lot about the practical side of running a business and how to get his products noticed.

Mustafa is currently working on a programme that makes teaching of chemistry at schools more fun. He has already had interest from within Palestine and from other countries in the Arab World. Like a lot of other Palestinian business people, he wants to do something positive to help his country, but he stresses that his company isn't a humanitarian operation.

'It's a business,' he says 'and the aim is to get good returns on the investment. One way he believes he can help is to pass on what he's learnt to others even younger than he is. 'I learnt a lot from that start-up weekend. When I go to the next one, I hope I'll learn more, but I'll also be able to advise others.

Reading (40 points)

1) Read the text and answer the questions below: (20 points)

Information and Communications Technology businesses could be the best hope for the economic future of Palestine, according to experts inside and outside the country. A recent report said that the ICT sector makes up over 5% of the Palestinian economy.

Why ICT? For Mustafa Jawad, the head of an online graphic design company, the answer is simple: "For an ICT start-up, all you need is a computer and a connection. You can distribute your final product by exporting it to the internet cloud." There are still problems, though. The main one is the lack of 3G networks in Palestine because access to the necessary wavebands is not available yet. Mustafa was always good at art and languages, and when he finished school, everyone advised him to study English at university. Instead, he taught himself how to programme and started making his own software programmes. His first attempt was a game, which was so popular with his fellow students that he decided starting his own company might be a real possibility.

His big breakthrough came when he attended a 'start-up weekend' in Ramallah. He managed to get a small amount of financial support which gave him the time to develop more ideas. Perhaps more importantly, he met other business people, both Palestinians and from other countries and learnt a lot about the practical side of running a business and how to get his products noticed.

Mustafa is currently working on a programme that makes teaching of chemistry at schools more fun. He has already had interest from within Palestine and from other countries in the Arab World. Like a lot of other Palestinian business people, he wants to do something positive to help his country, but he stresses that his company isn't a humanitarian operation. 'It's a business,' he says 'and the aim is to get good returns on the investment. One way he believes he can help is to pass on what he's learnt to others even younger than he is. 'I learnt a lot from that start-up weekend. When I go to the next one, I hope I'll learn more, but I'll also be able to advise others.

..... The benefits of the internet are so extensive that it has positively changed human society in every department. It has made life a lot easier by making information more accessible to all and creating connections with different people all around the world. For many people, the internet has become the fuel of their daily life.

..... However, it has also led to a lot of people to spend too much time in front of the computer, so much that it becomes the center of their lives. This can lead an internet addiction.. It is a mental condition characterized by excessive use of the internet, usually causing detriment to the user. Internet addiction is also known by numerous other terms, including problematic internet use, internet overuse and compulsive internet use. Internet addiction is becoming widely recognized and acknowledged, particularly in countries where it is affecting large numbers of people, such as South Korea, where it has been declared a national health problem. It is also a growing concern in developed nations in North America and Europe.

..... Studies show that internet addiction is quite common among people who are suffering from anxiety and depression. Their lack of emotional support means they turn to the internet to fill this need. There are also those who have a history of other types of addiction such as addiction to alcohol, drugs and gambling. People who are overly shy and cannot easily relate to their peers are also at a higher risk of developing a computer or internet addiction.

..... Internet addiction can be a significant threat to one's health and social wellbeing. The most common psychical symptoms of internet addiction are backache, neck pain, and vision problems from staring at the screen. Internet addiction also enforces antisocial behavior. It can lead to the inability to communicate in the real world by depriving the addict of the daily practices involved with the interpersonal communication, which subsequently results in emotional effects like social isolation, aggression and mood swings.

Reading and comprehension (40 Marks)

Question Number One: (20 points)

1) Read the two text and do the tasks below:

A: A new study into how the internet is changing the nature of friendship has found that social networking sites like Facebook and MySpace don't help people make more close friends. Although people (especially young people) using these sites claim to have thousands of friends, this research suggests that face-to-face contact is usually needed to form genuine relationships. Many previous studies of friendship have established that the maximum number of people in a standard friendship group is 150, with about five of these regarded as close friends. This new study has found that these figures remain roughly the same for online friends. What's more, the five closest friends of regular Internet users are likely to be people they have actually met. 'To form close friendships, we need to be able to trust the other person,' explains Dr. Samuel Holiday, one of the report's co-authors, 'and with people that you only know through the Internet, you can't even be sure they are who they say they are.'

B: As someone who has made a lot of friends via the internet, I'm tired of hearing that they are not real friends. The argument seems to be that you can never really know someone unless you've actually met them. The fact is that meeting someone is no guarantee that they are who they say they are. I've met lots of people whose real character and intentions turned out to be different from those first presented. In fact, I regard some people I've met online as my closest friends. We actually have many interests in common which is why we got together in the first place. The things I'm interested in are perhaps a bit unusual and there's little chance of meeting others with the same interests without the internet.

A: Decide whether each of the following is TRUE or FALSE: (6 points)

1. New research shows that social networking sites enable us to build genuine relationships. ()
2. Dr. Samuel believes we can't trust people we haven't actually met. ()
3. The writer of text B has similar interests to most people. ()

B: Which of the two writers would agree with the following opinions: (4 points)

1. Online friends are not as real as those we have actually met. A / B
2. Social media sites help you find people with similar interests. A / B
3. Meeting someone doesn't necessarily reveal his real character. A / B
4. Face – to- face interaction is necessary to form close friendships. A / B

C: Choose the correct answer: (3 points)

Reading Comprehension: (40 marks)

Question Number One :

1) Read the text and do the tasks below (20 marks)

We often hear people say, 'It's a small world, isn't it?' It's usually when they've just experienced one of those strange coincidences that seem to happen in nearly everyone's lives. You know the kind of thing: you're on holiday in another country and you run into a person you know from home, even though neither of you knew that the other was going there too.

People often think experiences like this are evidence of something mysterious happening, some kind of hidden plan outside our knowledge. The scientific explanation is less exciting, and perhaps that's why some people are reluctant to accept it. Coincidences are events that unexpectedly happen at the same time for no clear reason, or finding an unexpected connection between seemingly random things or people. A very common example of the latter is talking to a complete stranger and finding that you have the same birthday. What are the chances of that happening?

Actually, the chances are better than you might think, and there's a mathematical way to prove it. It has been calculated that the number of people you need to have a 50% chance of two of them sharing a birthday is 23. And when there are 48 people in a room, the probability goes up to 95%. To put it another way, if there are only 50 people reading these words (and I hope there are more!), one of them will almost certainly have the same birthday as me.

The other part of the scientific explanation for coincidences is simply that there are so many events in people's lives. Just think of the number of people that you have had any kind of connection with during your life. There are probably over 10,000, and the older you get, the more there will be. If you are the kind of person who talks to strangers, you will definitely come across coincidences. Basically, when you think about how complex our lives are, especially nowadays with the Internet, the only surprising thing is that coincidences don't happen more often.

Q1. Complete the diagram: (4 points)

2- Read the following text and do the required tasks: (20 points)

Read the following passage then answer the questions below.

Although using the internet to shop is usually fairly easy, and there is often greater variety available, it is always a risk because you cannot try on or see in details the item you wish to buy. In fact, the immediate “convenience” of shopping in this way can end up being an inconvenience if the item is faulty or does not fit, or is just not what the customer wanted.

It is true that the prices are better when you shop online, but, while it might be cheaper, there is a clear disadvantage because you have to wait for the delivery of the purchases.

Some people might prefer not to have any personal contact while shopping online, but it can save time in the end since there are always assistants to help with questions you might have during the transaction. In addition to this, there is the issue of internet payment security; however, recently this has improved a lot.

The internet has indeed given us a wider choice as consumers, as well as made some aspects of shopping more pleasant and convenient. However, it is nearly impossible, in my opinion, to forget the disadvantages we experience from time to time, since these can affect the way in which we choose to shop.

A. Complete the following table with correct information from the text: (10 points)

1 Three advantages of using the internet for shopping.	a) b) c)
2 A reason why shopping online is a risk.	..... .....
3 Possible disadvantage of shopping cheaply online.	..... .....
4 An advantage of personal contact while shopping online.	..... .....

B. Answer the following questions: (4 points)

1. Why can shopping online be inconvenient?

2. How can shopping online save time?

.....

C. Decide if each of the following sentences is True / False. (3 points)

1. It's always safe to pay for the items online . ()

2. The writer is completely in favour of shopping online. ()

D. Choose the correct answer. (3points)

1. The underlined word faulty means (imperfect - suitable)

2. The underlined pronoun this refers to (payment security - transaction)

3. We can substitute the connector since with (so - because)

Reading comprehension (40 marks)

Question Number one (20 points)

Read the following passage then answer the questions:

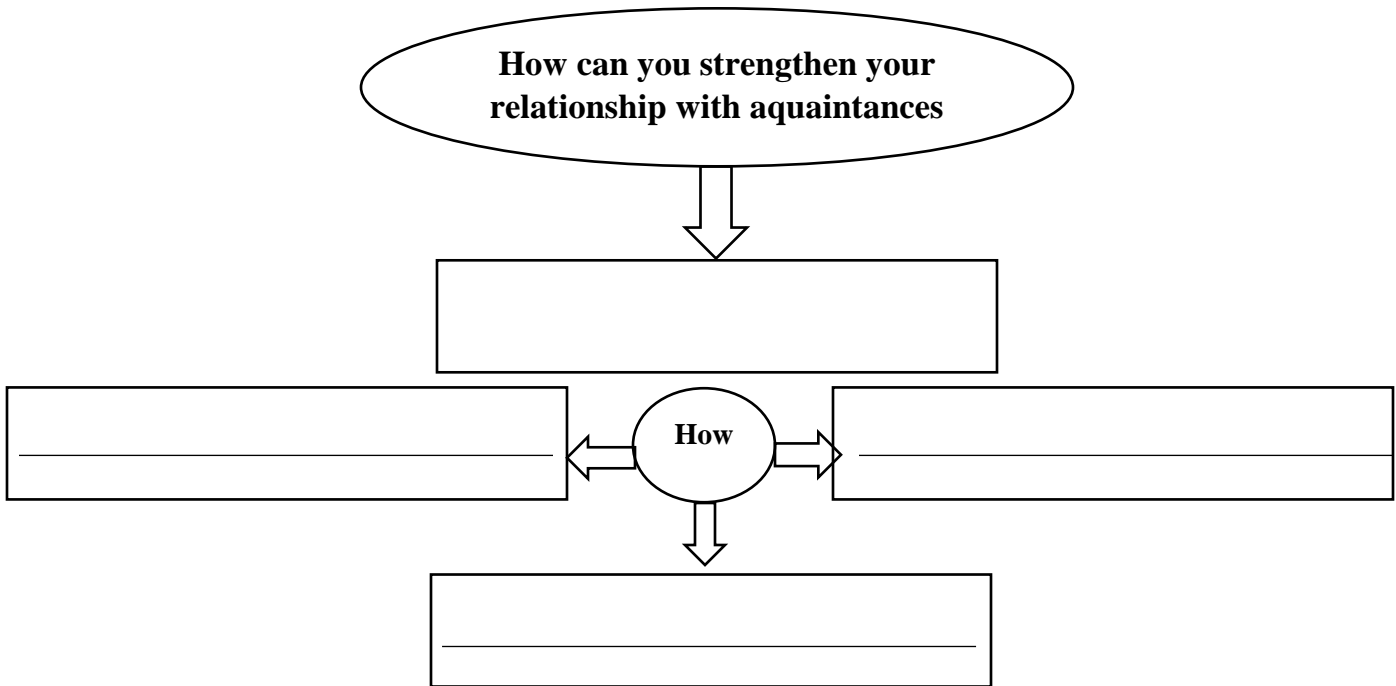

It used to be thought that friendship was something that ‘just happened’ between people. However, many studies by social scientists have shown that becoming friends with another person is a complex process, but one that can be learnt. Making (and keeping) friends isn’t easy- it takes effort. Here are the top five tips for tuning someone you know into a lasting friend.

1. Everyone has acquaintances – people we know, but who aren’t (yet) friends. To take your relationship further than just discussing the weather, you need to show an interest in their lives. Ask them questions (but don’t get too personal at first). Even more importantly, listen to their answers and remember the information for the next time you meet.
2. Maybe you made a joke that annoyed your new friend, or forgot to call when you promised to. It’s almost inevitable that something will go wrong at some point, but it’s how you react to the situation that may be more important than the initial error. An honest apology and making the effort not to let it happen again are usually all that’s needed.
3. When making arrangements, there are two opposite ways of behaving that can harm a friendship. The first is forcing the other person to make all the decisions by saying things like ‘I don’t mind, you choose’ or ‘whatever you want’. The other is being too particular and inflexible about what you want to happen, or where, or when. Try to find a middle way between the two extremes.
4. It’s understandable that you want to impress a new friend and make them aware of your good points, but don’t go too far. Research shows that most of us tend to like people who don’t boast about their achievements or take themselves seriously.
5. If someone tells you something ‘in confidence’ it means just that – they are confident that you won’t tell anyone else. In other words, they trust you. If you then pass on this information to another person, that trust is broken. Even if your friend doesn’t find out what you’ve done, this kind of behaviour can easily destroy a friendship over time.

1- Match the titles below with the tips in the text: (5points)

Reading Comprehension (40) Marks

Question number one:

(20 points)

Read the text and do the tasks below:

Are today's young sports stars overpaid? It's an opinion you'll often hear repeated, especially in the world of football. The figures are astonishing. When the Welsh player Gareth Bale joined Real Madrid s in 2013, his reported salary was around £250,000 a week or, if you prefer, £13 million a year. So every week he earns as much as the average Real supporter makes in ten years. This may be an extreme example, but there are a lot more footballers around the world earning almost as much.

It's a situation that makes some people very angry, but those who are infuriated by it often forget what players have to do to get to the top, and the risks involved. A new book by Wayne Barton tells the story of some of those who fell on the way up. These are young men who achieved the dream of playing for the famous club Manchester United, but only had short careers, often because of injuries. Take young Tony Gill, for example, who was on his way to becoming a regular first team player when he hurt his leg and was never able to recover, or the young forward Deiniol Graham, who broke his arm and never played professionally again.

The list of these tragedies goes on, but the story that stands out is that of Giuliano Maiorana. At the age of 19, he was playing for an amateur team in Cambridgeshire, England when he was noticed by one of Manchester United's many scouts, who was searching the lower levels of football for promising young players. At first Giuliano thought the offer of a trial for the world-famous Manchester club was a joke, wasn't-only months later, he played his first match at United's home ground, Old Trafford. He still remembers the mixture of excitement and terror he felt.

Unfortunately, he didn't get on well with the manager, and was soon playing in the reserve team. It was in a reserve match two years later that his knee was badly damaged. Soon, at the age of 24, his career was finished. For seven years after that, he couldn't even watch football. He now works for his family's business back in Cambridge, moving furniture, and says that he now wishes he hadn't been so good at 1 football when he was young.

A -Answer the following questions:

(6 Points)

1.What infuriates people about the world of football?

That today's young football players are overpaid.

2. What is a common reason why young players stop playing?

Bad injuries.

3. How did Giuliano feel the first time he played for Manchester United?

A mixture of excitement and terror.

B. Complete the following sentences:

(6 Points)

1. Tony Gill has a short career because he hurt his leg and was never able to recover.

1. 2- Giuliano Maiorana was a promising player when he observed by one of the Manchester United's many scouts.

3. The annual earning of Gareth Bale is £ 13 million

4- He regrets being a talented footballer. (T)

D. What do the following pronouns refer to:

(2 Points)

1. those (Line 8): players .
2. who (Line 15): one of Manchester United's many scouts.

Question Number Two:

(20 points)

Read the text and find answers to the questions below:

According to a survey in 2017 by the Royal Society for Public Health, Britons aged 14-24 believe that Facebook, Instagram, Snapchat and Twitter have detrimental effects on their wellbeing. On average, they reported that these social networks gave them extra scope for self-expression and community-building. But they also said that the platforms exacerbated anxiety and depression, deprived them of sleep, exposed them to bullying and created worries about their body image and “FOMO” (“fear of missing out”). Academic studies have found that these tend to be particularly severe among frequent users. Sean Parker, Facebook’s founding president, has admitted that the product works by “exploiting a vulnerability in human psychology”. Indeed, an experiment by five neuroscientists in 2014 concluded that Facebook triggers the same impulsive part of the brain as gambling and drugs. Yet it is difficult to prove that obsessing over likes and comments causes mental illness, rather than the other way around. The most convincing effort was a survey that tracked a group of 5,208 Americans between 2013 and 2015. It found that an increase in Facebook activity was associated with a future decrease in reported mental health .

Nearly 63% of Instagram users report being miserable, a higher share than for any other social network. They spend an average of nearly an hour per day on the app. The 37% who are happy spend on average just over half as long. An obvious solution to the problem is to cut down on screen time. Even the most obsessive users should be able to do so.

(6 points)

Advantages of using social media	1- They have detrimental effects on people's wellbeing. 2- they gave people extra scope for self-expression and community-building

Question Number One: (20 points)

Read the text and do the tasks below:

What makes an Olympic sport There are limits to how many sports can be included in the Olympic Games. In the 2012 Summer Games, there were 26, and the International Olympic Committee (IOC) have added two more for 2016 (golf and rugby sevens). There are various criteria that the IOC bases its decisions on, but the most important is probably international popularity. Sports tend to get included if they have a tradition and are played and watched by enough people in enough countries.

A change of mind This leads to some interesting questions. Why, for example, was baseball included from 1984, but then dropped for 2012? Although some think it is only popular in the USA, it actually has a large following in South America and Asia too. The main reason for leaving it out, according to some, is a combination of geography and politics: There is little interest in the sport in Europe, and European members are in a majority on the IOC.

Two examples of strange decisions Of the other sports not (yet) included, one that stands out is squash. It has a long tradition and is played all over the world. It's also more obviously a real sport than some other Olympic sports. In fact, it is more mysterious why certain sports are included. Take speed walking, for example the rules say the athletes have to have both feet in contact with the ground at all times, and must keep their legs straight. The result, to me at least, looks very silly.

My own criteria More importantly, it breaks one of my two personal rules for judging serious sports because it puts artificial limits on what can be done. My other rule is that the scoring has to be objective and measurable, not a matter of opinion.

A. Match the headings with the suitable paragraphs above: (4 points)

- a. Two examples of strange decisions b. What makes an Olympic sport
c. My own criteria d. A change of mind

B. Decide whether each of the following is True or False: (3 points)

1. There were 26 sports in the 2016 Summer Games. (F)
2. Baseball is well-known in most European countries. (F)
3. The writer suggests that speed walking should not be included in the Olympics. (T)

C. Complete the following: (5 points)

1. The IOC included golf and rugby sevens for the 2016 summer games.
2. For the IOC, the most important reason for including sports is international popularity.
3. According to some, baseball was left out from the 2012 games for geographical and political reasons.

D. Answer the questions: (5 points)

1. According to the writer, why should squash be considered as a game in the Olympics?
a. It has a long tradition. b. It is played all over the world. c. It's also more obviously a real sport than some other Olympic sports.

2. What are the writer's criteria for scoring in sports?

Scoring has to be objective and measurable, not a matter of opinion.

E. Write what the following words and pronouns might refer to: (3 points)

1. they (line 4) sports. 2. the sport (line 9) baseball
3. their (line 14) athletes

Question Number Two: (20 Marks)

Read the text about time management then answer the questions below:

Your success in high school can greatly be improved by being organized and using your time wisely. Staying organized can help ease the burden of a busy schedule. Here are some important tips to remember:

Tip1 Set Priorities : Managing your time effectively requires differentiating between what is important and what is urgent. Fill in things you must do (classes, work, practice, etc. that you can't change).

Write down appointments and class assignments. Make a daily checklist and rank it according to your priorities.

Tip 2 Get Organized: Organizing the place where you study, or your bedroom. Throw all the unnecessary files and papers away and leave the others in files so it will be easy for you to reach.

Tip3 Time to Study: Use daylight hours to study whenever possible. For most students for every hour of study done in daylight hours, it will take them one and a half hours to do the same task at night.

Tip 4 Stay Healthy: The care and attention you give yourself is very important. Scheduling time to relax, study breaks, eat regularly can help you both physically and mentally, enabling you to accomplish tasks more quickly and easily.

A. A: Read the text then choose the best title (a - d) for each tip: (6 points)

Reading Comprehension: (40 points)

Question Number One : (20 points)

Read the following text then answer the questions below:

Information and Communications Technology businesses could be the best hope for the economic future of Palestine, according to experts inside and outside the country. A recent report said that the ICT sector makes up over 5% of the Palestinian economy.

Why ICT? For Mustafa Jawad, the head of an online graphic design company, the answer is simple: "For an ICT start-up, all you need is a computer and a connection. You can distribute your final product by exporting it to the internet cloud." There are still problems, though. The main one is the lack of networks in Palestine because access to the necessary wavebands is not available yet. Mustafa was always good at art and languages, and when he finished school, everyone advised him to study English at university. Instead, he taught himself how to programme and started making his own software programmes. His first attempt was a game, which was so popular with his fellow students that he decided starting his own company might be a real possibility.

His big breakthrough came when he attended a 'start-up weekend' in Ramallah. He managed to get a small amount of financial support which gave him the time to develop more ideas. Perhaps more importantly, he met other business people, both Palestinians and from other countries and learnt a lot about the practical side of running a business and how to get his products noticed.

Mustafa is currently working on a programme that makes teaching of chemistry at schools more fun. He has already had interest from within Palestine and from other countries in the Arab World. Like a lot of other Palestinian business people, he wants to do something positive to help his country, but he stresses that his company isn't a humanitarian operation.

'It's a business,' he says 'and the aim is to get good returns on the investment. One way he believes he can help is to pass on what he's learnt to others even younger than he is. I learnt a lot from that start-up weekend. When I go to the next one, I hope I'll learn more, but I'll also be able to advise others.

(B) The benefits of the internet are so extensive that it has positively changed human society in every department. It has made life a lot easier by making information more accessible to all and creating connections with different people all around the world. For many people, the internet has become the fuel of their daily life.

(D) However, it has also led to a lot of people to spend too much time in front of the computer, so much that it becomes the center of their lives. This can lead an internet addiction. It is a mental condition characterized by excessive use of the internet, usually causing detriment to the user. Internet addiction is also known by numerous other terms, including problematic internet use, internet overuse and compulsive internet use . Internet addiction is becoming widely recognized and acknowledged, particularly in countries where it is affecting large numbers of people, such as South Korea, where it has been declared a national health problem. It is also a growing concern in developed nations in North America and Europe.

(C) Studies show that internet addiction is quite common among people who are suffering from anxiety and depression. Their lack of emotional support means they turn to the internet to fill this need. There are also those who have a history of other types of addiction such as addiction to alcohol, drugs and gambling. People who are overly shy and cannot easily relate to their peers are also at a higher risk of developing a computer or internet addiction.

(A) Internet addiction can be a significant threat to one's health and social wellbeing. The most common psychical symptoms of internet addiction are backache, neck pain, and vision problems from staring at the screen. Internet addiction also enforces antisocial behavior. It can lead to the inability to communicate in the real world by depriving the addict of the daily practices involved with the interpersonal communication, which subsequently results in emotional effects like social isolation, aggression and mood swings .

Reading Comprehension: (40 marks)

Question Number One :

1) Read the text and do the tasks below (30 marks)

We often hear people say, 'It's a small world, isn't it?' It's usually when they've just experienced one of those strange coincidences that seem to happen in nearly everyone's lives. You know the kind of thing: you're on holiday in another country and you run into a person you know from home, even though neither of you knew that the other was going there too.

People often think experiences like this are evidence of something mysterious happening, some kind of hidden plan outside our knowledge. The scientific explanation is less exciting, and perhaps that's why some people are reluctant to accept it. Coincidences are events that unexpectedly happen at the same time for no clear reason, or finding an unexpected connection between seemingly random things or people. A very common example of the latter is talking to a complete stranger and finding that you have the same birthday. What are the chances of that happening?

Actually, the chances are better than you might think, and there's a mathematical way to prove it. It has been calculated that the number of people you need to have a 50% chance of two of them sharing a birthday is 23. And when there are 48 people in a room, the probability goes up to 95%. To put it another way, if there are only 50 people reading these words (and I hope there are more!), one of them will almost certainly have the same birthday as me.

The other part of the scientific explanation for coincidences is simply that there are so many events in people's lives. Just think of the number of people that you have had any kind of connection with during your life. There are probably over 10,000, and the older you get, the more there will be. If you are the kind of person who talks to strangers, you will definitely come across coincidences. Basically, when you think about how complex our lives are, especially nowadays with the Internet, the only surprising thing is that coincidences don't happen more often.

Q1. Complete the diagram: (4 points)

Cocidences are defined as

Q2. Answer the following questions: (6 points)

2- Read the following text and do the required tasks: (20 points)

Read the following passage then answer the questions below.

Although using the internet to shop is usually fairly easy, and there is often greater variety available, it is always a risk because you cannot try on or see in details the item you wish to buy. In fact, the immediate “convenience” of shopping in this way can end up being an inconvenience if the item is faulty or does not fit, or is just not what the customer wanted.

It is true that the prices are better when you shop online, but, while it might be cheaper, there is a clear disadvantage because you have to wait for the delivery of the purchases.

Some people might prefer not to have any personal contact while shopping online, but it can save time in the end since there are always assistants to help with questions you might have during the transaction. In addition to this, there is the issue of internet payment security; however, recently this has improved a lot.

The internet has indeed given us a wider choice as consumers, as well as made some aspects of shopping more pleasant and convenient. However, it is nearly impossible, in my opinion, to forget the disadvantages we experience from time to time, since these can affect the way in which we choose to shop.

A. Complete the following table with correct information from the text: (10 points)

1 Three advantages of using the internet for shopping.	a) It's fairly easy. b) There's often greater variety available. c) It's cheaper.
2 A reason why shopping online is a risk.	You cannot try on or see in details the item you wish to buy
3 Possible disadvantage of shopping cheaply online.	- You have to wait for the delivery of the purchases.
4 An advantage of personal contact while shopping online.	It can save the time.

B. Answer the following questions: (4 points)

- Why can shopping online be inconvenient?
- Because the item might be faulty , does not fit or is just not what the customer wanted.
- How can shopping online save time?
- There are always assistants to help with questions you might have during the transaction.

C. Decide if each of the following sentences is True / False. (3 points)

- It's always safe to pay for the items online . (F)
- The writer is completely in favour of shopping online. (F)

D. Choose the correct answer. (3points)
